

Were there any measures adopted by this Member State stipulating that the obligation to telework in your Member State of residence would not lead to a change of your social security affiliation even if a substantial activity is carried out in your Member State of residence?

NO

Impact of teleworking during the COVID-19 pandemic on the applicable social security

Are you required - because of the COVID-19 pandemic - to telework from your home office in your Member State of residence instead of working in your usual place of employment abroad?

Are you an employed or self-employed frontier worker, an employer, a new recruit, working in two or more Member States as a worker or self-employed person or a posted worker?

In principle, your social security insurance is linked with the Member State where you habitually work. Under normal circumstances, when you start teleworking from your state of residence, the social security coordination rules are automatically modifying your state of insurance. However, the COVID-19 pandemic is an exceptional circumstance. Therefore, EU Member States took measures or actions so that teleworking in the Member State of residence during the pandemic would not lead to a change of the applicable legislation.

Find out more about the situation in your Member State by consulting this leaflet and if you require further assistance, contact the relevant social security institution in charge of your social security insurance.

Please note that the information provided in this leaflet is only indicative and in cases of questions, please always refer to the relevant authorities.

How did this Member State deal with the increase in teleworkers residing there when a substantial activity was carried out in this Member State as well?

- Change in the applicable legislation
 Agreement under Article 16 of Reg. 883/2004
Other measures

Cross-border workers resident in Greece, carrying out substantial activity in the Member State of residence due to telework were treated as mobile workers for a short period. It was accepted that the obligation to telework in the Member State of residence, instead of the normal Member state of employment, should not lead to a change of the applicable legislation during the pandemic.
