The "Pole's card" is a document confirming that a foreigner belongs to the Polish nation, e.g. on the basis of being a descendant of Poles/member of Polish community living outside of Poland, which facilitates obtaining a national visa, allows for the submittal of an application for granting citizenship or an application for permanent residence permit free of charge, and an easier access to a family relocation visa, allows to resort to the help of Polish embassies in some cases, undertake work and conduct entrepreneurial activity in Poland without the need for a work permit, use free healthcare in Poland in emergencies, benefit from cheaper tickets to rail travel and museums. There's no definition of "members of the closest family" in the Act on Assistance to Ukrainian Nationals. The Act on Foreigners defines "members of family" (not of "closest family") as, i.e.: 1) spouse; 2) a minor child of a foreigner and person married to a foreigner, such marriage being recognised under the Polish law in force, including an adopted child; 3) a minor child of a foreigner, including his/her adopted child, if the foreigner exercises actual parental control over the child; 4) a minor child of a person referred to in p.1, including his/her adopted child, if they support and exercise actual parental control over the child. All other persons designated in the Council Implementing Decision (EU) 2022/382 of 4 March 2022 are under standard temporary protection under Article 106(1) of the Act from 13 June 2003 on granting protection to foreigners within the territory of the Republic of Poland.

The law does not mention the status under which the displaced person was living in the affected area.

- b) Existence of a mechanism in place to coordinate the work of these national authorities with respect to persons enjoying temporary (or adequate) protection coming from Ukraine.

Regulation from 1 April 2022 on establishing of the Government Plenipotentiary for war refugees from Ukraine established a Government Plenipotentiary tasked with coordinating various unspecified branches of the government and civil society at different levels (including self-governments and NGOs). It is unclear how this cooperation works as the Government Plenipotentiary does not publish reports and very scarcely communicates his operations on social media.

2.0 Possibility of changing the status

- a) Difference between temporary protection status and other forms of adequate protection³ under national law, in respect of third country nationals and stateless persons coming from Ukraine.

Ukrainian nationals, their spouses who are not Ukrainian nationals, and members of the closest family of a Ukrainian national who has a Pole's card are not subject to the provisions of Chapter 3 of Section III of the Act on granting protection to foreigners within the territory of Poland, where the more beneficial provisions of Act on Assistance to a Ukrainian nationals apply. These persons can benefit from: easier access to labour market, including additional support in terms of access to employment (support from voluntary labour corps for persons between age of 15 and 25); support from centres for social integration; other rules for establishing temporary guardians for Ukrainian minors; and additional social benefits. On the basis of Article 2(1) of Act on Assistance to Ukrainian nationals, spouses of a Ukrainian national who has a Pole's card who are not Ukrainian nationals, and members of their closest family, as well as children born to Ukrainian nationals on the territory of Poland while the mother benefits from temporary protection, can legally reside on the territory of Poland during 18 months, from 24 February 2022 onwards.

Other beneficiaries of temporary protection are subject to the general temporary protection regime under the provisions of the Act on granting protection to foreigners within the territory of Poland. These persons can work and conduct entrepreneurial activity without having a work permit, as well as benefit from healthcare, accommodation, meal support, and financial support. Temporary protection under the general protection regime under provisions of the Act on granting protection to foreigners within the territory of Poland is granted until the foreigner can return to their previous place of living, but for no longer than a year. If after a year, the foreigner cannot return, in safe and durable conditions, to their original location, the period of temporary protection may be extended twice for 6 months. If the beneficiary of temporary protection cannot return to their country of origin or geographical area from which they came due to their health condition, in particular when it would lead to stopping medical treatment, the Head of the Foreigners' Office can issue a temporary residence permit until the circumstances that prevent the return cease to exist.

Regarding Ukrainian nationals on Polish territory before 24 February 2022 whose right to stay expired after that date, the Act on Assistance to Ukrainian nationals foresees the following extensions:

- ▶ If visa expired after 24 February 2022, the validity of the visa is extended ex lege until 31 December 2022. The visa does not allow to pass Polish border except for Ukrainian nationals who are working in cross-border transportation (Article 42(1)(4)(a)).
- ▶ If the last day of validity of temporary residence expires after 24 February 2022, the validity of this temporary residence is extended until 31 December 2022 (Article 42(5)).
- ▶ If the Ukrainian national was obliged to leave Poland and the period for leaving is due after 24 February 2022, this period is extended ex lege for 18 months (Article 42(6)).
- ▶ If the date of voluntary leaving in the decision issued for the Ukrainian national obliging them to leave Poland is due after 24 February 2022, this period is extended ex lege for 18 months (Article 42(7)).

³ 'Adequate protection' under national law is referred to in Article 2(2) of the Council Decision as a possible alternative that may be offered by Member States to temporary protection and therefore does not have to entail benefits identical to those attached to temporary protection as provided for in Directive 2001/55/EC. Nevertheless, when implementing the Council Decision, Member States must respect the Charter of fundamental rights of the European Union and the spirit of Directive 2001/55/EC. The respect for human dignity and therefore a dignified standard of living (such as residency rights, access to means of subsistence and accommodation, emergency care and adequate care for minors) has to be ensured in respect of everyone.

- b) Possibility to file status change inside the territory without the requirement for the person to first leave the country or return to Ukraine from temporary protection or other forms of adequate protection to employment-based residence permit during the temporary protection regime and at the end of this regime (e.g. single permit for work, EU Blue Card for highly-qualified workers, seasonal workers, family reunification).

Under the Act on Foreigners, beneficiaries of temporary protection cannot apply for temporary residence permits, uniform residence and work permits or EU Blue Card status while they are residing in Poland under the temporary protection status (Article 99, 116 and 131) nor can they apply afterwards since application for such status requires that the applicant is legally residing in Poland, which will not be the case once the temporary protection has expired (Articles 105 and 139(t)).

Article 38 of the Act from 12 March 2022 on assistance to citizens of Ukraine establishes an exception to this general rule, providing that Ukrainian nationals under the temporary protection granted by that Act may request a temporary residence permit.

- c) Relevant national legislation on changing the status (including the procedure to be followed).

Status change from temporary protection to temporary residence permit:

Article 38 of the Act from 12 March 2022 on assistance to citizens of Ukraine provides that Ukrainian nationals under the temporary protection may request a temporary residence permit. Ukrainian nationals can apply not earlier than nine months from the day of entry and not later than 18 months from 24 February 2022.

Any difference in admission criteria and conditions between first time applicant and when applying for a change of status:

Rejecting the application possible only if: 1) this is necessary from the point of view of defence or safety of the state, or protection of security and public order; 2) Ukrainian national is on a list of foreigners whose residence on the territory of Poland is not desirable; 3) Ukrainian national failed to meet the time for application.

Any alteration of rights with respect to residence: temporary residence permit may be granted for up to three years (normally issued for a period between three months and three years)

employment rights:

social welfare and social security rights:

- d) Measures aiming to preclude registration of displaced persons in more than one Member State/EEA-EFTA country (see Article 26 of the Temporary Protection Directive).

No measures are provided. Under the general framework, foreigners under temporary protection can be transferred to another Member State with their consent (Article 117b of Act on granting protection to foreigners within the territory of the Republic of Poland). A person under temporary protection who leaves the Polish territory loses their visa (Article 117b.4 of Act on granting protection to foreigners within the territory of the Republic of Poland).

In case of Ukrainian nationals, Article 11(2) of the Act on assistance to Ukrainian nationals provides that a Ukrainian national who leaves Poland for a period of over a month loses the right to stay in Poland.

3.0 Access to labour market (Article 12 of the Temporary Protection Directive)

- a) Overview on how equal treatment on the labour market as regards working conditions is ensured for persons enjoying temporary (or adequate) protection from Ukraine.

All persons enjoying temporary protection can undertake work and conduct entrepreneurial activity under the same conditions as Polish nationals (Article 87(6) of the Act of 20 April 2004 on the promotion of employment and labour market institutions and Article 116 of the Act of 13 June 2003 on granting protection to foreigners within the territory of the Republic of Poland), with standard rules pertaining to equal treatment, non-discrimination, etc., applying (e.g. Article 11 of the Labour Code that prohibits any direct and indirect discrimination in employment, Article 18 and 18 of the Labour Code that establishes principle of equal treatment in employment, prohibits discrimination while concluding and terminating employment relationship, and Article 94(2)(b) of the Labour Code that obliges employers to counteract discrimination).

- b) Conditions applicable to persons enjoying temporary (or adequate) protection from Ukraine, (including the procedure to be followed):

- I. The conditions regulating work permits/work authorisation, if required

- II. Recognition of qualifications/diplomas

Special rules are provided in the Act from 12 March 2022 on assistance to Ukrainian nationals, applicable to Ukrainian nationals and other categories of persons specifically mentioned (all references to Act from 12 March 2022 on assistance to Ukrainian nationals):

- 5) Psychologists certified in Ukraine can provide psychological services for Ukrainian nationals in Poland, including health care services in the area of psychiatric care and addiction treatment psychologists for 18 months from 24 February 2022 onwards (Article 64a); the right is granted ex lege, without necessity of any application/decision.

No special exemptions for persons under temporary protection on the basis of Act of 13 June 2003 on granting protection to foreigners within the territory of the Republic of Poland.

- III. Eligibility to receive assistance for job seekers (e.g., career counselling, skills assessment, locating appropriate job openings, etc.)

Beneficiaries of temporary protection may benefit from the general services available to all jobseekers (Article 87(6) of the Act of 20 April 2004 on the promotion of employment and labour market institutions and Article 116 of the Act of 13 June 2003 on granting protection to foreigners within the territory of the Republic of Poland).

Further to this, for Ukrainian nationals the following also applies:

- ▶ persons above 60/65 years old can benefit from jobseeking assistance;
- ▶ there are additional services from voluntary labour corps for persons between age of 15 and 25.

- IV. Availability of vocational training/educational opportunities for adults/practical workplace experience.

Beneficiaries of temporary protection may benefit from the general educational/training opportunities available to all jobseekers (Article 87(6) of the Act of 20 April 2004 on the promotion of employment and labour market institutions and article 116 of the Act of 13 June 2003 on granting protection to foreigners within the territory of the Republic of Poland).

Ukrainian nationals can additionally benefit from training conducted by centres for social integration (Article 24a of Act from 12 March 2022 on assistance to Ukrainian nationals). Additional funds for teaching Ukrainian nationals Polish language were provided by the Act of 8 June 2022 amending the Act on Assistance to Ukrainian Nationals and other acts that entered into force on 1 July 2022.

- V. Any exceptions to the general law in force in the country applicable to remuneration and other conditions of (self-) employment

On the basis of the Agreement between the Republic of Poland and Ukraine on social security, concluded in Kiev on 18 May 2012, Ukrainian nationals who have a combined seniority at work of 20 (women) or 25 (men) years in both of these countries can receive guaranteed minimum old-age pension in Poland (Ukrainian national must have worked at least a month in Poland to be eligible for a minimum old-age pension).

Healthcare is not provided if a person is covered as an employee or self-employed (Article 112 of Act from 13 June 2003 on granting protection to foreigners within the territory of Poland) where general rules apply (i.e. person is already covered as employee/self-employed).
